- Busy times record broken 3 different times in the summer
- Article is before the end of 2025, doesn't have data for the end of the year
- Quote: The record for busiest day ever at SEA has already been set three times this summer. Overall, eight of the top 10 largest passenger volume days in history at SEA have been recorded this summer. In addition, each of the top 10 busiest days for arriving international passengers has occurred since June.
- After record-setting numbers in 2024, SEA broke its overall daily record for passengers in 2025 on June 22, July 27, and most recently on August 10. That new top day saw 78,763 passengers outbound through Transportation Security Administration (TSA) checkpoints, with a projected 207,000 overall travelers through the airport (departing, arriving, and connecting). Meanwhile, the International Arrivals Facility's busiest day was July 26 with 11,281 passengers going through U.S. Customs.

[Alaska Airlines Routes From Seattle: Explore Top Destinations And Travel Options \[Updated On: January 2026\]](#)

- Main destinations: San Francisco, Los Angeles, New York. San Francisco and New York are main destinations because of business and tourism while LA is mostly tourism
- The most popular destinations from Seattle include Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Denver, Colorado. Los Angeles attracts travelers due to its warm weather, beaches, entertainment industry, and Hollywood, all of which are especially appealing to Seattle residents. San Francisco is popular for its iconic landmarks, such as the Golden Gate Bridge, as well as its professional sports teams. Denver draws visitors for its outdoor recreation opportunities, including skiing and hiking, which are further enhanced by the city's more than 300 days of sunshine each year.

- Seattle's most popular flight routes generally fall into two categories: business and tourism. San Francisco attracts a mix of both types of travelers, while Los Angeles is so popular for tourism that Alaska Airlines has made it a main route. New York primarily serves business travelers, whereas Denver is more popular for tourism.
